

Beginning Apple Grower Spring Field Day!

An educational farm tour specifically for new and beginning growers

CENTER for INTEGRATED AGRICULTURAL SYSTEMS

This special event is part of the Midwest School for Beginning Apple Growers, sponsored by the Center for Integrated Agricultural Systems, University of Wisconsin. The day will include stops at two orchards near Madison, WI as well as a short classroom session and lunch. The day will emphasize critical business start-up issues such as assessing market opportunities, orchard design, vital decisions about rootstocks and apple varieties, and financial planning tools. Join us to help make sure you are on track for success!

Date: Saturday, April 6, 2019
(rain or shine)

Time: 8:30 to 4:30
(Optional gathering at Brix Cider at 5:00)

Where: Door Creek Orchard,
West Madison Ag
Research Station, and Atoms to Apples

Cost: $45 (includes lunch and snacks)

Transportation is on your own, but carpooling is encouraged and will be facilitated.

The Midwest School for Beginning Apple Growers program features a three-day intensive workshop held during the winter. This classroom program will be offered this coming winter on the UW-Madison campus. This farm tour is an excellent opportunity to visit the farms of the experienced grower-instructors who teach this program. If you have questions about the tour or Grower School program, contact: John Hendrickson.

jhendric@wisc.edu or 608-265-3704

Registration is required! Register and pay online at:

www.cias.wisc.edu/midwest-school-for-beginning-apple-growers/

Or complete and mail this form, with payment to:

CALS Conference Services, 640 Babcock Drive, Madison, WI 53706

Name _____ Partner/Spouse (if attending) _____

vegetarian vegan

vegetarian vegan

Farm/Business Name _____

Address _____

(Street)

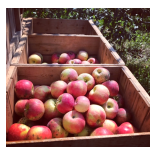

(City)

(State)

(Zip)

Phone _____ Email _____

We will use your email address to communicate with you prior to the event

Individual Fee: $45 _____

Partner/Spouse Fee: $10 _____

TOTAL: _____

Please enclose payment for total fees.

Make check out to: University of Wisconsin

Thank you!