Keynote Speaker & Special Guests

Abigail Derby Lewis will kick off the day with a talk on monarch butterflies and pollinator habitat conservation. As Director of the Conservation Tools Program in the Keller Science Action Center at Chicago's Field Museum, Abigail's work focuses on making conservation more effective and inclusive by co-developing practical tools with people around the world to identify, protect, study, and engage with the millions of species on Earth. Abigail's background as a senior conservation ecologist includes expertise in landscape conservation planning and climate change adaptation for urban nature.

Debby Moskovits - retired Conservation Ecologist and founder of the Keller Science Action Center

Iza Redelinski - Conservation Ecologist working in the greater Chicago Wilderness area

Amy Rosenthal - Rowe Family Director of the Keller Science Action Center

Doug Stotz - Senior Conservation Ecologist and Ornithologist at the Field Museum
