1. Wind is blowing oh so strong, yet I stand firm all day long. Spinning, spinning, round and round. Where oh where can I be found? What am I?
2. Here I stand with cupola to catch the breeze and keep out the rats. I was once used for drying corm but today stand empty and a bit forlorn. What am I?
3. You'll find me by the kitchen door with beautiful vegetation to adore. Thyme, sage, lavender ... are all around and other edible plants abound. What am I?
4. Dedicated in 1934, a treasured first settler I am for. Carlos Lattin was his name and founding Sycamore was his biggest fame. What am I?
5. A circular design you can see, originally made from the wax of a bee. In colors of white and red and used to seal letters, so it was said. What am I?
6. Water flows from me, but not all the time. Pump my handle for the water to climb. What am I?
7. I feel the wind blowing, but a question is growing ... Is it coming from the North, South, East or West? What tool on the farm will answer me best?
8. Help is needed on the farm, so the animals and crops will see no harm. Some hired men we need to keep, but where oh where will they sleep?
9. The wind is blowing strong and cold. Something is needed to give it hold. Tall and green in a row, they also help to keep back snow. What is it?
10. No store to be found, so we grow our own food from the ground. Feeding the children, mom and dad, with tasty items that make us glad. What am I?
11. Johnny traveled the Midwest dropping his seeds. What grew from them were not weeds. Fruit in red or green you'll find. Look and see, I don't mind. What did Johnny plant?
